Washington Horse Show

The annual Washington Horse Show is scheduled for the Meadowbrook Horse Show grounds on June 2, 3, and 4. Conformation and Working Hunters, 3- and 5-gaited Saddle Horses, Military, Open Jumpers and Junior classes will all be programmed, there being some 60 odd classes programmed. The show is a member of the American Horse Shows Association and, being as close as it is to Maryland, it ought to draw considerable support from local exhibitors, though few show there. The Meadowbrook grounds are in Maryland and are first class for their purpose. F. Moran McConihe, of 1321 Connecticut Ave., N. W., is Secretary of the show.

Annual Meeting

Following the racing of Dixie Handicap day, Wednesday, May 10, the annual meeting and election of officers of the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association for 1939 will be held in the Clubhouse at Pimlico. All members and others interested in Maryland's horse affairs are urged to be present on that occasion. The meeting will be held the night before the Yearling Show.

Yearling Show; May 11, 10:00 A. M.

A number of entries for the Yearling Show have already been received, with more coming in daily. The show will be held on Pimlico's Clubhouse lawn, through the courtesy of the Maryland Jockey Club, and will this year be handled somewhat differently than has been the case heretofore. Only yearlings foaled in Maryland, that are the produce of mares served in Maryland are eligible to compete in the show. Judges this year will be James E. Fitzsimmons and Harry Rites. Mr. "Fitz" has kindly consented to act once more as judge and this year will handle the colts. Mr. Rites, long one of Maryland's foremost trainers ere he retired a few years ago, has agreed to place the fillies. With another judge yet to be named these two gentlemen will select their Champion Yearling. Don't forget the time and date. The show must start on time 10:00 A. M., May 11.

Baltimore's Sporting Art Exhibit

All lovers of horses and of equine sport of all kinds should make all possible effort to visit the exhibition of sporting paintings, sculpture and prints now open at the Baltimore Museum of Art at Homewood. The exhibition is open until May 10, by which date many hundreds of horse lovers will have had an opportunity to inspect what is probably the finest collection of art of its kind ever before gotten together in America.

Hunting and racing are portrayed from their earliest days to the present by many a famous brush. Paintings by Wootton, Pollard, Stubbs, Marshall, Alken, Herring among the old school and A. J. Munnings, F. B. Voss, Cecil Aldin, Linwood Palmer, Lionel Edwards, Herbert Stitt and George Wright adorn the walls of the gal-

Maryland Horse Breeders' Association

Important Announcements

The Annual Meeting and election of officers for the coming year will be held in the Clubhouse at Pimlico Race Course, Baltimore, on Wednesday Evening, May 10, at 6.30 P. M. All members, Breeder-Owner, or Associate, are urged to attend. Would-be-members and others interested in the Association will be welcomed.

The Annual Show of Maryland-bred Yearlings will be held at Pimlico, through the courtesy of the Maryland Jockey Club, on the Clubhouse lawn at 10.00 A. M. Thursday, May 11. Judging will commence promptly at that hour. Mr. James E. Fitzsimmons will judge the Colt Class and Mr. Harry Rites the fillies. With a third judge these gentlemen will select the Champion of the Show. Entry blanks are available, if you have not already received one, from the office at Pimlico or from the office of the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association at Towson. The race for two-year-olds that showed at last year's show will be held the afternoon of Yearling Show Day, Thursday, May 11.

The Dispersal Sale of the W. M. Elder stud, from Merryland Farm, at Hydes will be held at Pimlico, Friday, May 12 at 10.00 A. M. promptly. There will be a sale of consignments from Jonabell Farm, Thornton Farm, Chris. Wood Jr. and others following the Elder sale. The sale will be held in the Pimlico infield if the weather is good. If the weather is bad the sale will be held in the paddock.

leries. Many horses well known to Marylanders are to be seen. There is Stitt's excellent portrait of Mrs. R. Curzon Hoffman, Jr., on her grand horse Alston; Franklin Voss' War Admiral and the same painter's Alligator and Albert Ober on Mullinahone. Of the present day artists it is regrettable that none of Martin Stainforth's excellent works are on exhibition.

Herbert Haseltine's statue of Billy Barton, Howard Bruce's great 'chaser, is a fine piece of work, as is his lifelike statue of St. James, George D. Widener's Futurity winner. The group of statues by Ella Horne Voss, including mighty Equipoise and Azucar are excellent also. Then there is a collection of early books on the horse, lent by Harvey S. Ladew, M. F. H., who is Chairman of the Sponsors' Committee, that is most interesting. One can spend many hours at the exhibit without a dull moment, and, like the writer, one needs to know nothing of the artistic value of the exhibition to enjoy it. The beautifully gotten up catalog, furthermore, makes a souvenir of the exhibition that one and all will want to keep.

Sale at Pimlico

The sale to be held at Pimlico, Friday, May 12 commencing at 10.00 A. M. promptly will be featured by the dispersal of the Merryland Farm stud of William M. Elder, headed by Bud Lerner and Sir James and including thirteen mares, 10 yearlings and nine foals of this year. The Elder horses are a good looking, well grown lot, all in good condition. The mares may be returned to the farm after the sale if the buyers wish, for the remainder of the breeding season without cost. The stallions will be delivered June 15, after their season is over. Included in the mare group are Inchcape Belle, dam of Thanksgiving, Bud's Bell and other good winners, and Sand Trap, dam of the good sprinter Rough Time.

Following the Elder sale there will be sold consignments from the Jonabell Farm, in Pennsylvania, Thornton Farm at Riderwood, Chris. Wood, Junior, and others. There are a mare, two two-year-olds and two yearlings from Jonabell Farm, a three-year-old filly and a yearling filly from Thornton Farm and hunter prospects and race horses from other consignors.

The Preakness

Saturday, May 13, 1939 will see the 49th running of Maryland's great classic for three-year-olds, the Preakness Stakes. All indications point to this being as fine a racing spectacle as ever before seen on the old course on the "Hill-top."

Thirty-nine of the finest three-year-olds in training are eligible for the Preakness Stakes. The number of candidates reached this total with the closing of the supplementary entries and an eligibility payment for those originally nominated.

The list of eligibles represents Thoroughbreds from twenty-seven different stables and it appears that every likely candidate for three-year-old honors is pointing for the race.

Included among the outstanding nominees are W. L. Brann's Challedon, Wheatley Stable's Gilded Knight, Belair Stud's Johnstown, W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite, Saratoga Stable's Volitant, William Ziegler's El Chico, Woolford Farm's Technician, Greentree Stable's Day Off, George D. Widener's Eight Thirty, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound, and the lone filly, Ciencia, owned by the King Ranch of Texas.

Twenty-seven sires are represented in the list of candidates for the Preakness. Of the group four are tied for first honors with three each. They are The Porter, Blue Larkspur, Equipoise and Sir Gallahad 3rd, and among their sons expected to go postward in the Pimlico classic are Porter's Mite, Lightspur, Counterpoise and Gilded Knight. Two Preakness winners are included in the list of Sires: Display, victor in 1926, and Gallant Fox, Triple Crown winner in 1930. Saratoga Stable's Volitant is Display's son and Milky Way Farm's Giles County is the well regarded son of Gallant Fox.

North, East, South and West will have their particular interest in the 1939 running of the Preakness. Ten states are represented in the list of twenty-seven owners of potential starters. New York leads with eight owners who have sixteen candidates; Illinois is next with four owners and five eligibles; Maryland and Kentucky are tied with three owners each having one candidate, while Texas has two owners and three candidates including the lone feminine aspirant, Ciencia. Keeping pace with Texas is Delaware with two owners and three eligibles. Louisiana has two hopefuls from as many stables while the State of Pennsylvania has two strong candidates. Rounding out the course of the compass the States of Kansas and Washington will each have one candidate. And oddly enough the strongest possibilities come from equally scattered points.

The complete list of current eligibles for the Preakness follows:—W. L. Brann's Challedon, Brandywine Stable's Deil and Guyencourt; W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite; Belair Stud's Challenge and Johnstown; E. R. Bradley's Benefactor; Joe W. Brown's T. M. Dorsett; Parker Corning's Chip In; Foxcatcher Farms' Golden Clown; Greentree Stable's Hash, Third Degree, One By One and Day Off; Harry F. Guggenheim's War Dog; Mrs. John D. Hertz's Gala Hour; Hal Price Headley's Atatime; Kiag Ranch's Ciencia and

A cherished trophy, the Woodlawn Vase.

Equestrian; J. C. Milam's Opelika; John Marsch's Lightspur; Mrs. H. J. Mohr's Rebellious; Milky Way Farms' Giles County; Shandon Farm's Syracuse and Yankee Lad; Saratoga Stables' Volitant; Starmount Stable's Shambles; Valdina Farms' Viscounty; Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound; John Hay Whitney's Heather Broom, Sidney Carton and Counterpoise; George D. Widener's Birch Rod and Eight Thirty; Wheatley Stable's Devil's Peak and Gilded Knight; William Ziegler's Time Sheet and El Chico; and H. M. Woolf's Technician.

The Woodlawn Vase, the oldest and most famous trophy still offered in competition in thoroughbred horse racing, is the permanent Preakness trophy. The winning owner is permitted the custody of this beautiful specimen of the silversmith's art for one year and a copy of the vase is presented for the owner's permanent collection. Recently the New York World's Fair Committee asked the Maryland Jockey Club's permission to display the Woodlawn Vase at the Fair as the most historic racing trophy in America.

The famous Pimlico Double, the Dixie Handicap and the Preakness Stakes, has been accomplished by four horses. Tom Ochiltree won both races in 1875; Duke of Magenta in 1878; Grenada in 1880 and The Bard in 1886. It is noteworthy that these doubles were, in each instance, accomplished the same year. Since the last one in 1866 no Thoroughbred has won both events either in the same year or otherwise, although Display, Preakness victor in 1926, and Victorian, first in the Preakness of 1928, finished second in the Dixie renewals the year following their triumphs in the Preakness.

The first Maryland-Owned and Maryland-Bred winner of the Preakness was Cloverbrook, owned by E. A. Clabaugh. Cloverbrook, a son of Vauxhall-Maudina, was trained by Jeeter Walden, brother of the famous R. Wyndham Walden who saddled seven Preakness winners. The Clabaugh-owned colt defeated Bombast and Lucifer in the Maryland Jockey Club classic of 1877.

The Dixie

The Dixie Handicap, older than the famed Preakness and the Kentucky Derby and one of the most important stakes on the American turf, will recall to spectators on May 10 two great races—the Preaknesses of 1937 and 1938.

It was in the Preakness of 1937 that Pompoon hooked up with the great War Admiral in a brilliant duel for the entire one mile and three-sixteenths to steal the show from the six other candidates. And it was only a year ago that Cravat, after trailing dismally for the first mile came charging through the rain-soaked stretch to threaten the winning drive of William duPont's Dauber.

Pompoon and Cravat, one five and the other four years old, are expected to meet for the first time in the Dixie of 1939. Pompoon will undoubtedly be a forward factor during the entire running of the race, wearing down the speed horses as the furlong poles are passed and assuming the lead in the stretch.

On the other hand, Cravat will likely pursue his own course of trailing the field for the first three quarters of a mile, keeping out of trouble and rounding the far turn will start to pick up the speed stars who were hopeful of assuming a commanding lead which would last the entire distance. Rounding into the stretch, the Townsend B. Martin colt should be ready to really turn on the heat, feeling at home on a racing strip which he favors whether it be fast or muddy.

Should this speculation become a reality the 20,000 fans expected on Dixie Day will see a spectacular stretch duel between two great thoroughbreds, creditable failures in the classic Preakness but courageous and plucky now with the opportunity of avenging defeats suffered over the old Pimlico strip on former and more memorable days in May.

Pompoon's partiality for Pimlico is well known as evidenced in his Preakness and his remarkable victory in the Dixie last year performed in track record time and only bettered by the great Seabiscuit when defeating War Admiral in November. The Louchheim color-bearer has been quartered at the Maryland Jockey Club course for the past month and his handler, the capable Johnny Loftus, has him training in splendid manner for the Dixie.

Cravat in returning to Pimlico carries with him increased respect following his sparkling victory in the mile and a half San Juan Capistrano at Santa Anita on March 11. In that test of stamina he defeated a powerful field of eighteen candidates for distance-running honors and added the tidy sum of $25,200 to his earnings.

Pompoon and Cravat, two of a list of sixty-two candidates for first honors in the Dixie, will have their work cut out for them and the true story of the race may feature the names of Bull Lea, Conquer, Jacola, Thanksgiving, Esposa, Heelfly or perhaps one or more of the lesser lights never seriously regarded as a threat.

Polo Prospects

Polo appears to be in for a good season in Maryland again this year with the first match game slated for Sunday, May 14 at the Maryland Polo Club's Stevenson field. On that date the home club will meet the 110th Field Artillery team from Pikesville Armory to carry on the rivalry temporarily dropped last fall. President of the Maryland club is J. W. Y. (Bill) Martin, owner of Worthington Farms in the Valley of that name. Mr. Martin will return to active polo this summer, supported by the Jamison brothers, Johnny and Dick, and Wm. Schluderberg and Henry Dentry. Carle Jackson is still on the Coast but is expected to be playing on his home team later in the season.

The public is invited to come out to watch the practice games, which will start the second Tuesday in May and continue thereafter each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 P.M. These games are free to all to watch. In the event of rain practice days will be Wednesdays and Fridays. The schedule of match games is expected to be arranged in advance of the season's start this year. Baltimore will be host to the annual circuit tourney again this year, this important event being scheduled for the latter part of July. The tourney has been moved up this year on account of Army manouvers being held during August. Facilities at the club have been improved by the widening of both gates so as to take care of two cars abreast instead of one, thus eliminating an irritating hold up for the spectators arriving and departing.

News Post

Point-to-Points

THE OLD-FASHIONED

First point-to-point race run in Maryland this spring was a seven mile gallop over the Worthington Valley hills organized by the Green Spring Valley hounds. In this event Stuart Janney, Jr., led the field to the finish line on Vaunt, a big bay son of Distraction out of Sure Thing, tracing to the only mare to win the Kentucky Derby, Regret. Finishing second was John K. Shaw, Jr., M.F.H. of the Green Spring Valley Hounds with John R. Vanderbogart third. Mrs. Dewitt Sage finished fourth, to win the ladies section of the race, Misses Ethel Hoffman and Frances Warfield finishing next in order behind Mrs. Sage. Practically the entire field finished the stiff course over twenty-four jumps.

JUNIOR POINT-TO-POINT

This year the Junior race was changed to allow the fair sex to participate against the boys, the course being over five miles of natural hunting country in the Worthington Valley, the finish being in a meadow on the G. Bernard Fenwick estate, Belmont. It was Robertson Fenwick, riding Sir Grey Grass, by *Sir Greysteel and out of Sour Grass by Fayette who won the race over

Miss Martha Randall, of Howard County, on Monty. Carey Jackson, on O'Donnell Lee's Joyful, was third. Charles Bolgiano on Daisy and Miss Ethel Lee Hoffman on Kilfinnan finished fourth and fifth. Fourteen riders started, four of whom took spills during the running of the race.

MY LADY'S MANOR

Thirty-first running of the My Lady's Manor Point-to-Point went to Hugh Jenkins O'Donovan who rode his own gray, Justa Racket, by *Royal Canopy-Pretty Business, by *Spanish Prince II. Trained carefully for the race by S. Lurman Stewart and well ridden by his owner-rider, a son of the late owner of the good timber horse Garry Owen that old timers recall so well, Justa Racket led the favorite, Blockade, at the finish. The latter, Mrs. E. Read Beard's winner of last year's Hunt Cup and again ridden by Fred Colwill, ran down the twelfth fence, was turned and put over it but lost a lot of ground. Catching the winner in the stretch Blockade could not take the lead from the gray, the pair being the only starters to finish.

In the John Rush Street Memorial W. Morris Hampson's King Ladislaus, by Ladkin, won from

S. B. Eckert's Big Don after a weirdly run race, marred by refusals, falls and a claim of foul.

GRAND NATIONAL

The Grand National Point-to-Point, at Hereford, was won by twenty lengths by Blockade, the rugged chestnut son of Man o' War and Rock Emerald scoring easily from Louis A. Randall's Monty with Wm. F. Cochran, Jr.'s Or Else third over Big Don. Falls eliminated Espadin and Comonhome. Fred Colwill gave the winner a good ride, the race showing the present favorite for the Maryland Hunt Cup to be in excellent fettle.

In the Churchville Cup, Deflation won for Dr. Walter Wickes over Forsaken. The rest of the field were just that—forsaken for one reason or another.

Yearling Show Race

There were 43 entrants at last year's Yearling Show that actually put in an appearance on that day and thus became eligible to run in the "Back Again" as Racing Secretary Charlie McLennan has named the race for which these now two-year-olds will compete. A recent check shows that there are at least twenty-five of the eligibles training around Maryland, though actually there may not be anywhere near that many to race on May 11 when the race is carded. If a large field is entered in the "Back Again" it will be divided and the race will be run in two sections. The breeder of the winner of this race receives a handsome trophy from the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association. With the 1939 Yearling Show staged for the morning and the race in the afternoon for last year's show entries breeders should have an interesting day at Pimlico, Thursday, May 11.

Erratum: Billy Barton

In our chart of the bloodlines of the winners of the Maryland Hunt Cup in our last issue Billy Barton was erroneously credited with but one line of the blood of the mighty sire St. Simon. The great son of *Huon should have been credited with two St. Simon crosses, he having one through his sire as well as through his dam.

MAY, 1939

Maryland Hunt Cup

As we go to press the Maryland Hunt Cup looms closer day by day. The entries this year number 15, though there are four or five doubtful starters. It is a great pity that Gerry Webb's Easy Mark bowed slightly in preparation for the race, for it was a real sporting gesture to aim the big hunter for the race. At least rider-scribe Webb would have had an interesting view of the race, if nothing better, to relate to his wide circle of Middleburg Chronicle readers. It is the forty-sixth running of the Maryland Hunt Cup, but it's a fair bet that none of the previous runnings has given its Secretary more headaches of one sort or another in the whole history of the race. Many new problems have confronted Secretary Rieman McIntosh, who has handled them as they came in a very capable fashion. It is a thankless job at best, Racing Secretary, but with rain, scratches, and the rest of the attendant worries of the job it's worse.

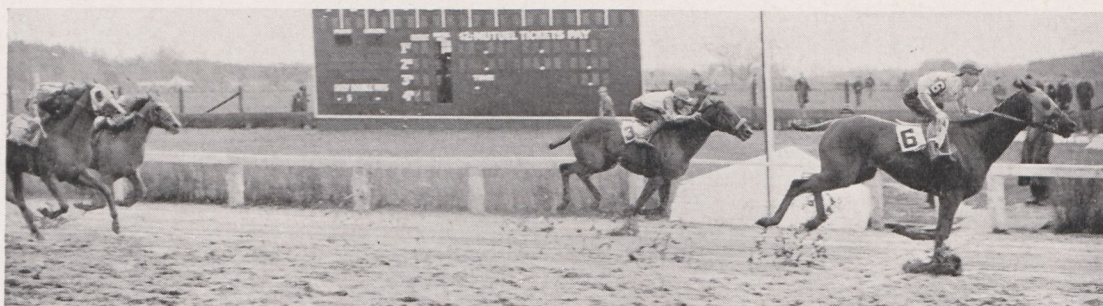

Of the 15 entrants listed King Ladislaus, Cornwall II and Easy Mark are the only known declarations at this writing. List of the original entrants follows:

Yancey Christmas' Rough Time gallops through the slop to win Bowie's Rowe Memorial Handicap.

Racing

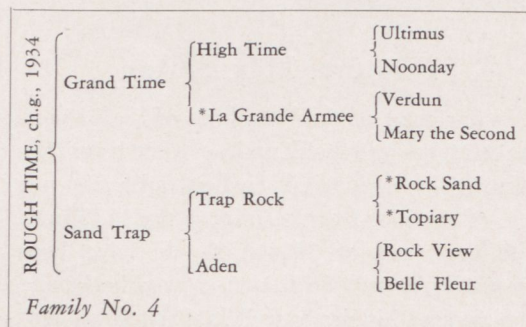

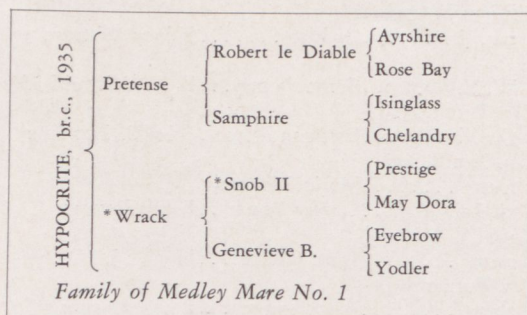

Last year it was snow that was Bowie's nemesis, causing the track in the pines of Prince George's County to lose the final four days of its meet, and this year it was rain that was Bowie's lot. Despite the fact that a Kentucky writer blamed the quality of the horses for Bowie's poor meeting it was a vile break of weather that was entirely to blame. Marylanders know that, coming first in the state's annual racing programme in the matter of dates in the Spring, Bowie never lacks for patronage. Let anyone who doubts it go to the track on a good Saturday in the Spring, or any other decent day. This year it rained almost every day, and when it did not rain the track was in terrible condition.

With two extra days allowed by law to make up for part of the loss last fall the session opened by Yancey Christmas' chestnut gelding, Rough Time, Marlboro-bred son of Grand Time and Sand Trap (who will be sold in the Elder sale May 12) by Trap Rock winning, from "eend to eend," the Rowe Memorial Handicap, of $5,000 added, six furlongs. This stake success for a Maryland-bred was followed by Major Ral Parr's home-bred Hypocrite's win in the mile and seventy yards of the Bowie Handicap, also $5,000. The last of *Wrack's sons was trained for his winning race by Guy Bedwell, whose horses are in fine form this Spring.

Whitey Abel's Honey Cloud just beat another Maryland-bred in Challephen in the Southern Maryland Handicap. In the final stake, the Bowie Kindergarten, for juveniles, Mrs. Gustave Ring's Rumba Gus, trained by Paul Watts, and by Saxon out of the good mare No Regrets, beat the Bryson trained entry of Jouett Shouse's good filly Arden Lass and T. J. Hill's Nosy.

When the scene shifted to Havre de Grace the weather was much improved, first stake of the meeting going to the Bedwell-trained Sun Egret, hard hitting son of *Sun Briar, this being the six furlong Harford Handicap. The event that packed the plant to capacity and then some was the Chesapeake Stakes, won by Gilded Knight from the Vanderbilt owned, Kilmer-bred Impound and Challedon, who will surely improve on this showing. The field in this race included several Derby and Preakness nominees having their first public trials. Bad weather had spoiled chances of some of the entries getting tightening up races so that considerable form changes will likely be seen among the entries.

As we go to press we learn that the Bryson trained and owned Imprudent beat the Bryson trained-Hill owned Nosy in the Aberdeen Stakes, with Rhumba Gus in third hole. Torrents of rain marred the running of this race.

Challedon

Challedon, Maryland's top-line representative in the spring and summer Classics, made his 1939 debut in Havre de Grace's Chesapeake Stakes, turning in a highly creditable performance to come from behind with a wet sail to finish third to Gilded Knight and Impound, both seasoned by racing. Seabo let his horse settle into his stride and at the three quarter pole *Challenger II's son was last. Had Louis Schaefer had a chance to get a race under Challedon's belt I expect he would have finished second in that race.

Challedon ought to find the mile and a quarter at Louisville much more to his liking, the Preakness distance as well. Early speed is regarded as an essential in the Derby, whether Challedon will have enough of this to get away from the Derby's jams and to keep out of trouble remains to be seen. It is likely the draw for positions will make a lot of difference to Challedon's placing at Louisville. In the Preakness, the probable smaller field should make for a better race. Look out for Johnstown and Challedon in the Derby with a good wager that *Sir Gallahad III will have more to do with the finish of the race than any other sire.

Oldfields Sells Percheron: Buys Angus Cattle

First sale from the newly established Oldfields Farm Percheron Herd is reported by K. A. Clark, Manager. The horse sold is the very promising yearling black stallion Nik 232880. As the name might indicate, he is sired by the famous Nikimi 176351 and his dam is Topsy 210318, by imported Killdeer. This youngster, therefore, represents the combination of blood lines that are so prominent in the Oldfields herd as well as other Maryland herds.

The purchaser is Geo. Robert Moffett, Chestertown, Maryland. Mr. Moffett is one of Kent County's younger farm leaders. He is very much interested in all progressive livestock activities and aside from his horses, he is extensively engaged in dairying. His plan is to add a few good Percheron mares or fillies as the opportunity comes.

In commenting on horse affairs in his community, Mr. Clark states that there are quite a number of foals putting in their appearance over the countryside and that there is much interest in breeding. He says the better horses will be busily engaged and will have all they can do this season. Ken Clark, like many other breeders of draft and Thoroughbred horses, has found the black Aberdeen-Angus breed tops in beef cattle to run with his horses and to use up the waste roughage of the farm. Clark accordingly has purchased from Andelot Stock Farm, where Maryland's presiding genius of the Angus breed, Alan McGregor, holds sway, thirty-two of the finest heifers that could be had anywhere. These heifers will be used as a nucleus for a new breeding herd at Oldfields and will run with the grand lot of Percherons there. It is Clark's plan to market the excellent quality beef the breed produces in the shape of prime steers for the top beef trade.

Three important factors in Challedon's training are his trainer, Louis Schaefer, the pony, and Challedon's exercise boy who has worked the colt right along.

"Fitz" a Breeder

As an exercise boy, jockey, trainer and owner, James E. Fitzsimmons has known all the thrills that racing holds but it was not until the evening of Thursday, April 13, 1939, that he knew the thrill of being a breeder for the first time.

It was upon this occasion that he received a telephone call from Cockade Farms, Harford County, Maryland, advising him that his mare Betty Byrne had presented him with a filly foal by Sun Circle. This Maryland bred filly is "Sunny Jim's" first foal.

Betty Byrne is by Brown Bud-Bobbles by *Sir Gallahad III, her granddam is *Bobolink II, dam of St. James. She is a half sister to Dixiana, top filly in France last year.

Fitzsimmons retired her in the fall of 1937, sent her to his friend Vaughn Flannery at Cockade Farms. She was bred last spring to Major Stryker's Sun Circle, is booked this spring to Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Identify.

Thus the name of a famous trainer is added to the growing list of Maryland breeders. One hopes that "Fitz" will exhibit this filly at next year's yearling show.

News Post

Today Is 400 Years Old

Four long years ago a horse breeder worked late into the night. Under his study lamp were spread the pedigree records of the Thoroughbred horse.

These records have been called "the oldest social register in the world"—but this is a bit unfair to the Thoroughbred. Their's is more than a record of ancestors, for only the worthy are deemed deserving enough to be reserved for breeding.

From these records and his experience the breeder hoped to select for his mare just the stallion to help produce a foal possessed of the quality of bone and muscle, and above all, the disposition, the speed and the courageous racing heart to win the Preakness.

With the air of a man who has made up his mind, the breeder closed his books, and walked through the night to his stable for one final inspection. As he left he gave his favorite mare a goodnight pat as though to tell her the die had been cast. The decision the breeder made that night is recorded in the racing program in your hand—for under the name of the horse of your choice is set down the name of the father and mother.

The stallion chosen may have been the breeder's own, or a neighbor's, or even one miles away in another State. The breeder backed his judgment by paying a fat stud fee, the shipping expense and board for his mare, and by caring for her with all the concern of a fond and fussy grandmother. Remember, this was four years ago—long before Preakness Day.

The year slipped by. One Spring night, the groom came to the house, called the breeder to the stables and there in the deep, clean straw of the foaling shed stood his Preakness hope—long-legged, wobbly-kneed, and with the timid eyes of a deer.

When the weary breeder tumbled back into bed, the Preakness must have seemed a long way away.

Three summers ago your Preakness choice was romping over the fields of a breeding farm somewhere in Virginia, Kentucky or Maryland, playing with other foals, slipping cautiously behind his mother when strangers appeared.

Came the Fall and weaning time. The colt's mother was led away. Less than a year old—he was alone and on his own.

Came 1937—your favorite was running in a grassy paddock and growing like a weed. His breeder had worried over his food and feet and his disposition to nick and bump himself in his enthusiasm to run and play. Because all horses' birthdays are officially January 1st, he is now a yearling and has been registered with the Jockey Club. He is ready to be "broken."

Thoroughbreds are not "broken" cowboy style—they are "gentled"—slowly—patiently.

First they learn to be led, with only the weight of a hand resting where one day a jockey will sit. Gradually the weight is increased until he will carry a light saddle. The first to sit on our young colt's back was a wiry-legged lad of 100 pounds. In time the colt was ridden. Then, first school days were over, he was turned out until Spring.

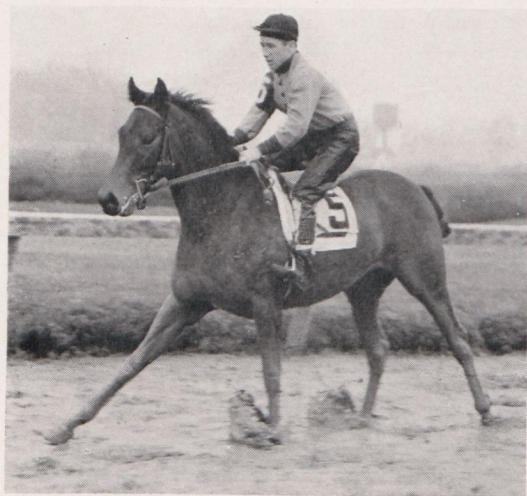

A year ago this Spring, a letter came from the Jockey Club notifying the owner that the name he had requested for his horse was now official. And we only wish you could know the study and imagination that went into his naming.

That Spring this horse you've chosen as your favorite met his trainer, and was given long, easy gallops. Then one morning he was asked to run with all the speed he had. Probably, for a while, his shins were sore and tender. Probably he had a siege of coughing. Young horses, like children, must go through their childhood illnesses. But finally the colt was ready for a race.

In his first race, the chances are he ran "green"—for he was inexperienced and did not know what he was supposed to do. Oddly enough, horses have to learn to race.

But he did learn. At last he won a race. As a two-year-old he proved he was a horse of merit, and when he was retired for the Winter, his owner had paid the first of a series of substantial fees to nominate him for the Preakness.

Today, a three-year-old, he comes up to the Preakness. Pimlico has offered a rich purse. If the colt didn't have a chance to win the Preakness, he would not be here. He is fit and ready—and you are to see him run.

What will happen? Will he find the track to his liking? Will he get away badly? Will he be full of run but boxed in behind other horses? Will his chances to run come too late in the race? Or will he find that, try as he will, there is a better horse in the race. Remember, defeat may be by no more than the width of your little finger.

If you back him with a wager, please remember this . . . 400 years of breeding will have helped your choice vindicate your esteem. If he fails to win, be watching closely—for the chances are that 400 years of breeding will be trying with might and main. Remember, too, that the finest thing about a Thoroughbred is—a courageous heart.

Win or lose, let your choice BE your choice and you will have witnessed one of the most thrilling events the tradition of racing affords. You will be seeing a race founded 66 years ago by the Maryland Jockey Club and named in honor of the great horse, Preakness.

Remember, too, though horses who race today have pedigree and performance records that go back further than any other living creature, Thoroughbreds do not rest upon their laurels. The only way to prove whether a better horse has been bred is to race him.

Because such races are something to see, for centuries race courses have been established and regular racing meetings held. Once more Pimlico fulfills its function as a proving ground of Thoroughbred breeding and stamina and courage will be tested in the Preakness.

The horses who prove themselves here may one day return to our breeding farms to carry on a tradition that began 400 years ago when Henry VIII founded the Royal Studs and enacted laws that brought the Thoroughbred horse into being.

For you, today began 400 years ago. V. F.

Good Hunter Sire

The accompanying photograph shows the U. S. Remount's bay stallion *Kremlin II that for some seasons past has been siring some good hunting stock in Howard County. *Kremlin II, a strongly made, rugged horse, was a stake winner over the jumps in France and was imported as a five-year-old. He did not race here and was retired to the stud at the Raskob farm at Centerville, Pioneer Point. Augustus Riggs III, as good a judge of a horse as there is in Maryland, took the stallion to his Meadow Brook Farm at Cooksville, later turning him over to the Remount service, who have stood him at the Howard County Hunt's headquarters at Glenelg. Best known of *Kremlin's get is War Krem, Vic Noyes' Champion of last year's Maryland horse shows. A feature of the forthcoming Doughoregan Manor Horse Show, one of Maryland's oldest and certainly held in the loveliest setting of them all, will be a class for yearlings, thoroughbred or half-bred, that are the get of *Kremlin II.

Pimlico Morning

from "The Thoroughbred Record"

These grand spring mornings have drawn many an early bird to the Old Hilltop course of the Maryland Jockey Club at Pimlico of late. Last Saturday, with racing less than a week off in old Maryland, we joined the few watchers who were on hand at dawn to clock the day's works. The sun was rising beyond the stables along the back stretch as we took our place in the stand, but there were horses out ahead of us even so. Frank Bonsal, one of Maryland's crack cross country riders, now training J. W. Y. Martin's string, was cantering along on a pony at the head of a set of two-year-olds as we drove in the gates. We had barely time to get set before he sent them off to breeze three-eighths, head and head, and running true and straight.

Then Jack Boniface appeared on his pony with a set of Mrs. R. H. Heighe's homebreds from up Bel Air way. With the lads dressed in the white and green colored sweaters of the stable, and a fine looking lot of youngsters, mainly by Theatrical, they made a good show. Jack Boniface, but a youngster himself, has had real success with his stable. The sun was getting higher and the morning mist was clearing as Mrs. John Bosley, Chase Me's trainer, cantered around the bend into the stretch, leading a set of her own and the A. C. Bostwick horses. A smart looking filly caught our eye, a daughter of Mate we were told she was.

Horses were coming out thick and fast by now. Charlie "Pistol" White led a set on the now almost white St. Francis, a cracking good chaser. St. Francis worked three-quarters easily, going in effortless fashion under his trainer's guidance. That pair has scored many a triumph. A couple of Gary Black's juveniles were in the same set from the White Stable. Emmett Potts, trainer of the Bomar Stable of Detroit, joined us in the stands, telling us of the Bomar Stable's entry into the breeding ranks, with Grand Slam's book filled in no time at Jack Keene's farm in Kentucky.

Percy Randolph now appeared, sauntering along in front of the stands while a set of Abram

‡Name of this colt not recorded.

§Later renamed "Liberty Loan."

S. Hewitt's imp. Ksar juveniles came down the track. Percy has had the Hewitt stable at Pimlico all winter, his imp. Ksars being a grand lot. There are two colts and a filly that appear to be of real stake calibre in the Sister Ship chestnut and the Hilena bay among the former and the Miss Patience and perhaps the Ridge Blonde among the latter.

John Farrell, Jr., stopped for a visit with us while he awaited Frank Garrett's appearance with his string. The latter is another that wintered at "Old Hilltop," the stable including the horses of Howard Bruce, Chester F. Hockley, John Farrell, Jr., and Dr. Walter Wickes, all Marylanders. As Garrett and his set appeared they were followed by their grooms and after a two mile slow gallop the horses went into a paddock for a lesson in standing there while being rubbed out. There Frank Garrett showed us the good sprinter Jay Jay; Chester Hockley's fine colt Dark Watch, one of Maryland's few Derby entries; the filly Nansemond, and a few more. They stood well in the paddock, the work being nothing new except for the two-year-olds, who were quite on their toes.

The watchers had increased greatly in numbers when a big bay was seen galloping leisurely along behind a brown pony. The crack of Jerry Louchheim's stable was out for his work, with Trainer Johnny Loftus a minute figure away in the center field. "Pompoon's going to work," the word went round. And work he did, three-quarters in 1:18 in effortless fashion, his great ground-devouring stride making it appear as though last year's Dixie Handicap winner was hardly moving. Pompey's great son pulled up in fine shape and stood quietly for a couple of minutes ere turning and leisurely walking back to the barn. He's in great shape, and is a grand looking horse right now. If Loftus can bring his horse up to his great effort of last year Pompoon's is a good bet again in the Dixie.

Mrs. Bosley was next seen, with three horses cantering along behind her hunter, the strongly made, good actioned Betty's Buddy being one of them. The set did not work but looked impressive in a good open gallop. The Endurance Handicap winner of three years ago is not being pushed at all and is training in excellent fashion. He's greatly like his good sire Bud Lerner.

The sun was pouring down, people were all round us by now, and an old friend in "Irish Jimmy" Stewart joined us on the rail to watch a set of the Everglade Stable two-year-olds work. The get of Wise Counsellor, they all showed plenty of lick in their work and will doubtless soon be seen in competition. Jimmy has had the Everglade Stable for some time past and hopes for good luck this season as Fred Burton has some good 'uns among his home-breds that wintered up at Elkton, at Jimmy's farm.

Two husky lads equipped with skull-helmets trotted past our stand and after a gallop proceeded into the infield where five schooling fences have been erected recently. The pair started off all right, but one got a refusal at the second fence. After that they schooled two turns at a good pace without further trouble. These were followed by three more jumpers from John Bosley's barn, both John and Mrs. John being there to watch them. Chester Hockley's Tro-light and Bill Elder's Walkaway schooled together, going along very well for a green pair, just learning the game. There'll be no lack of material for the jumping races at Pimlico this spring.

More sets appeared from Frank Garrett's barn; Jack Boniface brought out some more and then Janon Fisher's grays, by Grey Coat, made their appearance. E. C. Eastwood, who now has half a dozen in training, came out with his Saxon colt, one that I think will do well, with a bit of luck. A set of Harry Straus' two-year-olds, all in fine condition, galloped through the stretch while Trainer Blume, a keen pedigree student himself, watched their performance from the stand. N. K. Beal had out the stake winning Bud's Bell from Bill Elder's barn, with the owner watching the gallops, and noting particularly a corking good Bud Lerner colt that is more like his sire than anything he has gotten in years.

So the morning passed. The warm spring sunshine permeated the atmosphere and the hope eternal that carries all horsemen ran high. Talk was of Florida and Santa Anita, and hard tracks; of Gulfstream, with its wonderful cushion; of Hot Springs; of Cuba, where ticks in the bedding and flies had caused one horse to bow in both tendons from stamping and plunging in his stall, and where the natives are getting oversmart in the matter of claiming likely ones from visiting horsemen. There were tales of a son of imp. Sir Gallahad III., claimed, bred to a couple of mares, and raced again. Back and forth the talk ran, with welcomes flashing here and there as more and more newly returned horsemen reappeared from their winter locations. It was an all-Maryland gathering, for the most of the out-of-state owned horses had shipped direct to Bowie, where things are humming. And it was a cheerful spot, one to enjoy visiting. Try it sometime, it's the same old story everywhere. Get out to Belmont, to "the Duck," to Keeneland, to the "Downs," to Narragansett, to "The Graw," and get that spring tonic of early morning sunshine, galloping horses, and good old horse gossip. There's nothing to beat it. You'll enjoy it.

Fairy Gold Blood

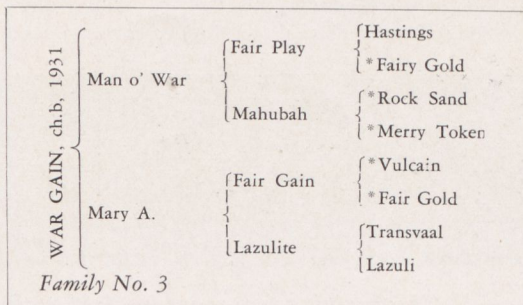

Editor, THE MARYLAND HORSE,
Sir:

As an amateur student of Thoroughbred bloodlines, I have been interested by the advertisement for Jean Bart that has appeared at times in THE MARYLAND HORSE, describing him as "the best bred son of Man o' War alive." Mr. Leslie Keiffer's letter on the subject, which you published in your March issue, was quite enlightening, as it pointed out that the chief reason for confidence in Jean Bart's bloodlines lies in his two crosses of Fairy Gold.

There is, however, another son of Man o' War standing in Maryland who also has two crosses of the great mare Fairy Gold and two of *Rock Sand as well,—the eight-year-old chestnut horse War Gain, out of Mary A, she by Fair Gain. Due to an accident War Gain never raced, but has stood for three years at his owner, Dr. Adams' Glen Wild Farm, where he has gotten several fine looking foals. War Gain's dam has sent one filly to the races, Merry Freda, winner of five races at distances up to a mile and a quarter. His grandam Lazulite was the dam of three good winners, and was herself a daughter by Transvaal of the unusually fine mare Lazuli. Lazuli foaled three stake winners, (Glen Wild, Rehoboth and Gracie) besides several other horses of good quality.

This letter is not intended to dispute Jean Bart's claims, but to give Maryland breeders another reason to congratulate themselves on being so fortunate as to have within their state two sons of Man o' War, each sufficiently well bred to give hope that he may be the one to carry on the greatness of the line.

Sincerely yours, BEVERLY RHETT.

On Saddle-Horse's Tails

Editor, THE MARYLAND HORSE

Sir:

On page 21 of your April issue of THE MARYLAND HORSE you print an article entitled "Lovers Of The Horse." This appears to be a reprint from The Evening Sun, covering the annual meeting of the Maryland Horse Show Association. I quote a portion:

"The Humane Society wants to discourage a practice, which many consider cruel, of giving saddle horses (which aren't, of course, hunters) a stylish appearance by practices which may involve "nicking" (cutting), breaking and resetting their tails, so that the said tails are carried high, elegant and useless the rest of the poor beast's life."

I am a bit surprised to find an article such as this in THE MARYLAND HORSE, even though it is only a copied article. Surprised, because you, being a practical horseman, I am sure know that the practice of "nicking" does not involve breaking of the tails. I think you also know that the tails are not rendered useless for "the rest of the poor beast's life."

There should be fair play in business, in professions, and in sports. It is not fair play for anyone to criticise a practice they know nothing about. Because one person concludes that the practice of setting tails, as is followed by all saddle horse people, is cruel, it is unfair and not sportsmanlike for someone else to keep alive these unfair and untrue statements made by the original uninformed individual. It is a practice among saddle horse people to "nick" a tendon in the tail of a saddle horse, which allows the tail to be carried high and accentuates a certain characteristic of the breed.

I keep saddle horses because I love them. They are the most beautiful horse, the most intelligent horse, with the ability to perform any and all acts I wish a horse to perform. I enjoy going to my stable every morning and every evening, and as many other times as it is possible for me to get there. I would not enjoy my horses if I thought they were in any way in misery, or suffering. On the contrary, I get my greatest pleasure out of seeing them when they are in the bloom of life, willing and eager to perform their master's bidding, acting the part of a real show horse with high head and high tail; sound of legs sound of body, with enthusiasm for their life and surroundings. A horse cannot go through the tortures I have heard and read from uninformed people about tail setting and have these characteristics.

Recently a man came to my place from Tennessee. On a Thursday morning, in less than an hour's time, he performed this slight operation on six of my horses. On the following Sunday morning, seventy-two hours later, I defy any man, veterinarian or otherwise, to have told me where a single horse had been touched. There was no time after the operation I could distinguish any degree of suffering on the part of any one of these horses comparable to what I suffer after the day I have been to a dentist. The statement that the horse's tail is rendered useless after such an operation can only come from one who is uninformed. I have been closely associated with saddle horses for a long time. I have never yet seen one that lost any use whatsoever of its tail because of this operation, or because of the tail set that is used. Until the last year I never heard anybody refer to a horse's tail as broken in the process of this operation. That statement can come from only one who does not know and is too arbitrary to take the trouble to learn.

Also, in this same publication I see on Page 29 an article entitled "Natural Tail Trophies." By reading further I find there are going to be classes held in Maryland this year for saddle horses, three gaited, with "natural" tails. I would like for someone, preferably you, to enlighten me as to what this is to accomplish. In the first place, a horse show has as its reason for existence the setting of a standard for certain types and kinds of horses. If there is to be a Thoroughbred hunter class, certainly one would not expect that class to be won by a horse that is not a Thoroughbred. If there is to be a Hackney class, one certainly would not expect that class to be won by a Percheron. On the contrary, you do expect the judge to be a man versed in what he is to look for in a given class of horses. He is expected then to select a horse that conforms more closely to that type, tempered in a proper ratio with performance and manner. The three gaited class is designed for the American Saddle Horse as definitely as Thoroughbred hunter classes are designed for that certain breed of horse. If a Thoroughbred is selected to win a three gaited saddle horse class how can the exhibitor, the spectator, the breeder, hope to learn anything from the Judge's decision in such a class? Therefore, I am unable to understand what can be accomplished by classes for three gaited horses with unset tails because, as far as I know, there isn't a three gaited horse that has attained proper show age around Baltimore that has a "natural" tail. If there was such a horse and you took him anywhere else to show him he could not win regardless of how good an individual horse he might be.

It occurs to me that the "natural" tail fad probably started from some rich lady in New York last fall, with more money than information, who induced the National Horse Show to put on such a class; that the classes proposed to be given in Maryland for horses with "natural" tails are an outgrowth of that un-

My experience with saddle horses in Maryland is there has been a lack of saddle horses and saddle horse classes, that shows do not have time because of the preponderance of hunter classes to put on many saddle classes. I would like to suggest that now, since there are a number of saddle horses in Maryland, the shows put on real three and five gaited saddle classes so the public may learn the merits of the best breed of horses we have ever originated in this country. I love a good horse of any breed. Now that we have a number of people who own good saddle horses in Maryland won't the Maryland Horse Shows be true sportsmen and give these good saddle horses a chance to show as a good saddle horse should be shown?

If anyone thinks, or believes, a saddle horse goes through torture and discomfort, that their tails are broken so they cannot use them the same as any other horse can, I invite you and them to my place to see for yourselves whether this is true.

Sincerely,

RUSSELL L. LAW.

GALLOPING ON, b. h. 1933

(Property of
Mrs. Sylvester Labrot, Jr.)

A WINNER

At Stud, Season 1939

This horse has had his racing career cut short by a broken ankle.

His dam, *La Muiron, is also the dam of three stake winners, they being:

Tred Avon (22 wins, $66,400, including King Edward Gold Cup, Toronto Cup, Arlington Matron Stakes, Washington Handicap); Monel (Miami Shores Handicap and mile in 1.35 3/5) and Stainforth (Aberdeen Stakes).

*La Muiron, through her second dam, Santa Lucia, contains the famous Ajax-Durbar combination of blood. (This combination is found in the pedigrees of the successful mares, Flambino and La France, dams of Omaha and Flares, Jacola and Johnstown respectively.)

Galloping On showed great speed and, as a two-year-old, not raced, sold for $6,000. Galloping On is by *Light Brigade, a Bend Or horse, as also is the sire of Omaha and Flares.

The Editor's Saddle-Bag

March 16. A visitor from New York, Mr. Fred A. Rempe, visited us this afternoon and expressed wishes to have a look at Pimlico and some of the horses there in training so to "Old Hilltop" we went, seeing Charlie White's string, the Hewitt* Ksars, the Elder stable and a few others.

March 18. Called on a few of our city advertisers and checked up on a few matters of business in Baltimore this morning before coming home by way of the Green Spring Valley and the Maryland Polo Club's Stevenson field where new gateways were being built to accommodate the increase of traffic at the field on Sunday afternoons in the season.

March 19. This has been a sad day, for, with many another, we gathered at Holly Beach Farm at Annapolis to attend the funeral of a really great lady, Mrs. Sylvester W. Labrot, who was buried in the lovely garden on the shores of the Whitehall Bay where she had lived so many years. Had a look at *Kantar and a few of the foals in company with Stud Manager Wm. Clasby in the evening. There are some first class foals by the French sire there as well as some by *Aethelstan and Happy Time that are pleasing to the eye.

March 24. Paid a flying visit to Arthur B. Hancock's Ellerslie Farm at Charlottesville today, there to see Pompey, Tintagel and *Foray II. This last I saw for the first time, and an impressive stallion he is. Speed sticks out all over *Foray, who is getting a fine book of mares this spring, his first in America. Went over to Major Ral Parr's Laural this afternoon and there saw Legal Light getting his exercise in a paddock with a boy up. It is only about the second time the son of Wise Counsellor has been under saddle since his accident last fall. He has grown into a big, stallion-like horse, with more crest than many a proud sire. It will be a long time yet before Major Parr's pet gets back to his racing. There is a yearling half-brother of Legal Light, a bay colt by *Aethelstan at Laural that is a top in every respect.

March 25. Got back from Charlottesville this afternoon after seeing some fine foals and the best yearling filly by *Blenheim II that I've seen as yet. This is out of Gallant Lady by *Sir Gallahad III and is a smashing good sort, full of quality and bred to be a stud prospect of real merit. Best colt I saw, I thought, was Tintagel's brother, by *Sir Gallahad III-Heloise by Friar Rock. Tintagel himself is a strapping sort. Drove up to Adolphe Pons' Country Life Farm this afternoon to get a picture or two of High Strung, whose get are racing very well, and to see the new stallion at the Pons farm, Sir Herbert Barker, half brother of Porter's Mite. Saw several nice looking foals by various sires, a good *Alfred the Great colt and another by Crack Brigade that were especially promising.

J. A. Estes

A prominent four-year-old that is being quietly prepared for fall racing is Ral Parr's Legal Light. The colt appears above in his paddock at Laural, in the Green Spring Valley.

March 26. Saw a nice Happy Time yearling and a Chance Play two-year-old that Dr. Oliver T. Brice has at his small farm in Anne Arundel County this afternoon. The former is sister of a frequent winner in Oteebee.

March 27. Took the file of Maryland-breds over to The Caves today, there to check over with Janon Fisher, Jr., the fillies that had been retired and others removed from racing for various causes. Saw Louis Campbell, just back from Cuba, with Mr. Fisher, and many were the tall tales Louis had to tell of racing on the Island this past winter.

March 28. Visited Long Green Farm this morning to see how the Noyes horses were looking. The good mare War Krem has wintered well and looks much better than she did at Pikesville in February. Old Mint Briar, a finely made stallion, looks very well and is getting a few mares. Then on by Three Cousins Farm to Winnaford where Reid Edwards showed me the foals by Glastonbury, a uniform, stylish lot, with plenty of quality.

March 29. Arthur Hullcoat, who has wintered his string at his Darlington farm, West-acre, dropped in to the office for a visit this morning, checking up on the breeding and racing records of some newly acquired charges for this season's racing.

March 30. Went down by the early train to Bowie's spring opening today. All the old familiar faces were to be seen on the train and around the Secretary's office where were gathered the tans of Cuba and Miami and the returned visitors to Santa Anita and Hot Springs. There was a good crowd on hand to see Yancey Christmas' Rough Time win the stake.

April 1. Down at Bowie again today, there to see two Maryland-breds, Ral Parr's Hypocrite, back from the Coast, and W. L. Brann's Challephen, who wintered at Bennings, fight it out in the Bowie Handicap, with the former just winning.

April 4. After the races at Bowie today I drove over to William Woodward's Belair Stud there to go 'round the yearlings with that brilliant Master-Breeder, than whom America has seen no cleverer since the days of August Belmont. Mr. Woodward is recovering speedily his strength, lost after an operation this winter that was of a serious nature. No better place to recuperate could be found than Belair where its master has his Thoroughbreds and his farm with its Clydesdale Horses and Shorthorn cattle to interest him. Of the yearlings I plan to write at length in another place.

April 5. Along with some few hundred other interested souls we visited the scene of the Old-Fashioned Point-to-Point race in the Worthington Valley today, finding it a sight most interesting. One mounted a hillside, gazed afar off and saw emerging from behind the trees a long procession of riders and horses which one watched cross a chicken coop, then an in-and-out and then scamper out of sight. Then it was rush for the cars and away to the finishing point where we saw Stuart Janney, Jr., on what was without doubt the best bred horse in the race, being a great-grandson of the Derby winning mare Regret, win from M.F.H. Jack Shaw.

April 8. Spent the morning at Pimlico today, watching the works of the horses and the schooling of some of the jumpers at the course. There is a new schooling course at Pimlico, and the flat track is in fine shape for training. There are a lot of horses at Pimlico just now. And so off for Annapolis for Easter.

April 9. This afternoon I visited the very quiet plant at Bowie to take some photographs of a two-year-old, a snip on whose nose had been overlooked when his markings were registered. It is an awful job to get such matters straightened out and it behooves breeders to be careful in the matter of registration of their foals.

April 10. Drove to Washington this morning there to meet Col. Thos. J. Johnson, Chief of Remount, for lunch at the Army and Navy Club, the Colonel being accompanied by Editor J. A. Estes of The Blood-Horse. Soon we were joined by Col. Kelser, Chief of the Veterinary Corps of the Army; Dr. Herbert Clark, Director of the Gorgas Memorial Institute and

BAY HORSE, 1927

Thence back to Burton Barb Mare (No. 2 Family).

*CHALLENGER II was unbeaten as a two-year-old in England. He won the Clearwell Stakes at Newmarket with 133 pounds up and the Richmond Stakes at Goodwood with 122 pounds up.

In thirteen renewals of the English Derby to 1936, sons and grandsons of Swynford have won six times; have been second three times and third once.

In the six renewals of the Kentucky Derby from 1931 to 1936, sons of Swynford produced three of the winners.

Four of the English Derby winners were by Swynford's great son, Blandford. A reference to Blandford's pedigree will show *Challenger II to be bred more like Blandford than any other horse in the Stud Book. Gondolette is also the dam of Sansovino, a son of Swynford, winner of the English Derby and now a very successful sire. Gondolette is grandam of *Pharamond II and *Sickle.

Through his bottom line *Challenger II goes back to that great mare, Amphora, who was sister to Sundridge, sire of Sunstar, Sun Briar and Jest.

*CHALLENGER II was bred to twelve mares his first season. The produce was twelve foals; eleven of them raced. Ten of them have won and one has placed, including Challephen, stakes winner.

*CHALLENGER II's second crop consisted of seventeen foals. They were two-year-olds of 1936. All of them have won. Among them were Challite, Goya, The Schemer and Savage Beauty, stakes winners.

*CHALLENGER II's third crop, two-year-olds of 1937 consisted of ten foals. Five of them have won, three have placed, two have never started to date.

*CHALLENGER II's fourth crop, now two-year-olds, consisted of ten foals. Three of them have won, among them the stakes winner Challedon, four have placed, and three have never started to date.

CHALLEDON was winner of The Maryland Futurity, The New England Futurity and The Pimlico Futurity, earning a total of $67,700, which makes him the second highest money-winning two-year-old of 1938.

*CHALLENGER II's first four crops consisted of fifty-one foals. Forty-five of them have raced. Thirty-seven have won. Eight others have placed. Six have been stakes winners.

FEE $1000. One Year Return Privilege.

Dr. George Crile, head of that same; Dr. Harry Schoening, Chief of the Pathological Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry and Dr. Earl Burky, ophthalmologist of Johns Hopkins Hospital. The talk was of periodic ophthalmia and of extreme interest to a layman like the writer. Then we went off to Dr. Schoening's offices for a discussion of Dr. Burky's findings in Maryland on the dread eye disease, where Abram S. Hewitt joined us. Following this we repaired to the American Red Cross headquarters to hear Drs. Crile and Herbert Clark report to the gathering of the Gorgas Memorial Institute's work. And so home, and tired, too.

April 13. Mr. William M. Elder having decided to sell out his Thoroughbreds from his Merryland Farm at Hydes, together with Janon Fisher, Jr., Chairman of the M.H.B.A. Sale Committee, we visited the Elder farm to see how the horses looked and just what there was to be sold. Found Manager Charles Slade and Mr. Elder awaiting us and saw there some fine looking yearlings, some good mares and foals. All will be sold at Pimlico, May 12. The Elder racing stable will be sold during the racing season.

April 14. After an all night train ride I am at Spartanburg, S. C., today, to judge the Hunters and Jumpers at the Spartanburg Riding Club's second annual horse show. There are some fair hunters here, and some good jumpers from Fort McPherson, Ga. The saddle classes are very good.

A star of the Spartanburg, S. C., horse show was little Sarah Ann Shea who won the class for most promising juvenile rider.

The show has been an interesting one to judge and will doubtless become an important spring show in the southern circuit before long. Sarah Ann Shea riding side-saddle on a big pony was an attractive exhibitor at the show, where she won the class for young riders showing the best promise.

Maryland-Bred Winners

March saw a decided upturn in the number of winners bred in the State of Maryland, as was to be expected with the seasonal increase in the field of the sport. During the month there were 57 winners of 73 races that were Maryland-bred. 34 individual breeders were represented, with Labrot & Company leading with 7 winners of 11 races hailing from their Annapolis stud farm. Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Branncastle Farm tied in second place with four winners of a like number of races, Morris and Walden coming next with three winners of six races.

Of the 33 stallions whose names appear on the sire list of the month Happy Time, second string Labrot sire, led with six winners of eight races, leading Flying Ebony with five winners of as many races. *Challenger II with four of six and Balko, with four winners of four races placed next.
